These colors are not very conventional sport company colors. I chose these to create a sense of a unique, cool and contemporary vibe

Company & logo:

- Zao is a company that produces snowboards. We aim to provide the best snowboards for all scenarios, emphasizing snowboarding as both a lifestyle and a passion. We want to convey a sense of freedom and connection with nature. Our target audience is mainly teens and young adults.

SNOWBOARDS

- I created this logo with reference to the mountain Zao in Japan. It is famous for not only for its ski resorts but also its foxes, but you can't see them during the winter, so I wanted create a logo to bring another sense of life and nature to snowboarders. Its three tails is also a reference to the Japanese mythology of kitsunes, who often represents age, wisdom, and power. I combined the fox and the three tails to create a base logo which I made variations to in my branding bento box page. The color scheme provides a point of interest and combine elements of tradition with creativity to create a elegant, alightly more complex logo but with a modern twist. This connects with the target audience to follow traditional footsteps in snowboarding while adding their own contemporary styles and techniques into it. I also included 4 sub-logos as icons on different products to add variation and to adhere to each product's unique style.

My logo:

There aren't alot of Zoomorphic logos, and not a lot of logos with a street art font style. Combining these two elements, along with my unique color scheme, makes my logo special and recognisable. The only large company with a similar logo is Never Summer, but I am going in a more street art style, which differentiates me from them.

COMANY NAME: ZAO Snowboards

Target Demographic: people who Snowboard (young adults mainly)

What do you think about the overall aesthetic of the logo? Color Choice, Fonts and is it original?

Rate on a scale of 1-5 (5 being best) 1 2 3 (4) 5

I really like the font, color, and also the main design of the fox. It's original, simple, and clean.

Does the logo design appeal to the target audience? What message do you think the logo sends to potential customers?

From the first logo alone customers might not recognize it as a snowboards company. Maybe put a snowboard or something cold/snow/winter in the logo so people know it has to do with snowboards.

Is there any aspect of the logo that stands out positively or negatively to you?

I really like the sketch details that make the fox pop out but maybe max the tilt to the top or bottom so it doesn't cover the fox's face and tail. Also add snowboarding or a small component of winter or snow.
